COMING SOON · AUSTRALIAN DELIVERIES REPORTED FROM Q1 2027

RHD

The Y63 Patrol drops the V8 for a 317 kW twin-turbo V6 — order it in Australian spec, right-hand drive, in Ti, Ti+, Ti-L, Ti-L+, PRO-4X or Ti-L Reserve. It is the same 3.5-litre engine and nine-speed automatic in all of them, on a dual-range transfer case and rated to tow 3.7 tonnes braked, so the ladder from Ti to Ti-L Reserve is about wheels, screens and suspension rather than what is under the bonnet. Pick a grade above and the specification below follows it. Australia is one of the seven countries we buy in, so you can order this one at Australian retail and ship it to your own market. Register your interest and we will come back with a landed cost for your country. Photography is Nissan Australia press imagery of a pre-production car; Nissan states that Australian specifications, features, design elements and availability are subject to change without notice.

Why import this Patrol

01 You buy in Australia, not through a re-exporter
Australia is one of the seven countries our own team buys in. You order the Patrol through the Australian retail network yourself, and the margin a re-exporter would take on the way out stays with you.

02 One landed number, before you commit
You choose the grade you want, and we map the duty, VAT and registration-tax position for your destination onto it and give you a single landed figure with the freight in it. You decide on the real number, not an estimate.

03 Right-hand drive, with the file to prove it
Our Australian office clears the car for export and prepares the pack your own authority asks for — build date, VIN, compliance and the exact grade specification — and we support your clearance at the destination port.
